INCREASE SUPERVISOR REFERRALS TO YOUR EAP

- ✓ IDENTIFY MORE
 "AT-RISK"
 EMPLOYEES
- ✓ SKYROCKET EAP VALUE
- ✓ MARKET YOUR EAP

Never Late!
Arrives Early!
Authored
by Pros!

FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR

Since 1994 – the world's only EAP newsletter for supervisors

Keep supervisors thinking about the EAP, encourage more referrals, help more at-risk employees, increase program value and impact

Work Excel com

Employees—Your Most Valuable Resource

WHAT SUBSCRIBERS ARE SAYING...

"Thanks [for your newsletter], I can't tell you how much our client companies appreciate what you are writing. Always a big hit with managers we work with and very helpful for them! Keep up the good work."

David Worster, Director NH EAP Collaborative, Concord, NH

"Every month I tell my clients ...'this is particularly good issue' and every month it truly is!" This is a great resource. Thank you so much."

Elizabeth Robinson, LMFT, CEAP, Manager, EAP University of Connecticut, Farmington, CT

"The FrontLine Supervisor is like putting out my own newsletter without any of the headaches."

Ted Walker, Reliant Behavioral Health Portland, OR

"The U.S. Coast Guard is an 'operational service'. My supervisors can read THE FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR in 10 minutes. They learn how to keep their people working at full throttle!"

Jody Burcham, EAP Coordinator, U.S. Coast Guard Kodiak, AK "...We distribute THE FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR monthly under our own letterhead and have had numerous calls of appreciation for this added service."

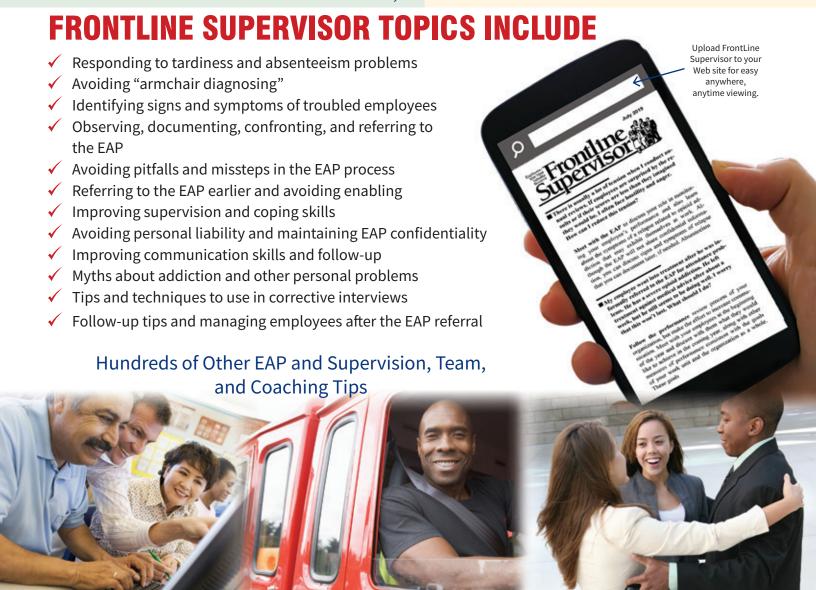

Mark Derbyshire, Director, Carilion EAP Roanoke, VA

"This is the most employee assistance appropriate newsletter I have ever seen. Thank you for a job well done."

Barbara Sheffield, EAP Program Director Santa Barbara, CA

"THE FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR is our most effective tool for helping managers and supervisors in our client companies. They tell me they keep each issue and refer back to them."

Ted Larrison, EAP Manager, Southern Hills Counseling Center Jasper, IN

The Most Powerful Way to Increase Supervisor Referrals to the EAP

For Supervisors and Team Leaders!

Educates supervisors and motivates them to refer employees to the EAP. Articles each month include practical information and tips on correctly using the EAP in supervision.

GUARANTEED TO INCREASE EAP UTILIZATION!

Ready to distribute!

Get FrontLine Supervisor in MS Publisher, MS Word, text only, PDF, or html readable on portable devices

Expertly written!

It shows! Inspired by extensive ongoing EAP experience from the field.

Easy Reading!

Designed for easy reading and acceptance—only two pages, NOT four! No nonsense, problem/solution format!

Educate and Help Supervisors Stop Enabling

Keeps supervisors thinking about the EAP and reminds them to confront and resolve performance problems with troubled employees. Your EAP stays visible and your training with supervisors continues all year! The EAP's relationship with the organization grows! NORTHSIDE EAP EmployeesYour Most Valuable Resource
Supervisor

NORTHSIDE EAP

PemployeesYour Most Valuable Resource
Supervisor

Confidential/Easy to Access

both with the EAP's recor

ss 901-555-1797 or 1-800-555-1797

Available for Consultation

Free! Get a professionally created, customized masthead

■ Poor job performance or unsatisfactory quality of work is obviously the number one issue with troubled employees. Beyoud this, what is the most common problem among troubled employces, and how should supervisors respond?

The management research from Center for Creative Leadership surveyed over 200 supervisors and discovered that the most common employee problem (other than poor job performance) is "inability to get along with others." Conflict and friction between two employees are not uncommon, but beware of employees who (1) blame others for their problems, (2) make others feel guilty for not living up to their expectations, (3) show an inability to own "their half" of problems, (4) have little insight into their behavior, (5) view discussions about their behavior as personal attacks, and (6) are overly adept at making excuses. These behaviors in combination are unlikely so respond to a corrective interview with you. Making an early referral to the EAP along with well-written documentation is recommended. (If you need help with constructing effective documentation, consult with

■ Can I refer an employee to the EAP to help him or her deal with boredom? One of my best workers expressed loss of interest in the work and labeled it boredom. I know this is not a psychological problem, but can the EAP help address it? Work with your employee to examine how the job can be structured in a way that rekindles interest. If you don't see an immediate rally, suggest help from the EAP, Your employee's boredom could be linked to depression. Depression costs business and industry about $44 billion a year, according to the American Psychiatric Association. There are other symptoms of depression visible to others in the workplace. Do you see any? They include with-drawing from the team, isolating oneself, being indifferent, putting things off, missing deadlines, seeming absent-minded, procrastinating, being late to work, and more. All are quantifiable performance measures. Your employee may not go to the EAP, so be prepared down the road to consider a formal refernal as needed. Note that the problem of boredom is a good example of how something that appears minor could be a symptom of a serious condi-

■ I referred my employee to the EAP this morning because of his attendance issues. When he comes back to the office this If your employee went to the EAP and you pheviously had contact with the program in arranging the referral, you should get chaffirmation of participation if a release was signed. Regardless, meet with your employee and discuss the essential duties of his position, the reasons for the referral, and your expectations for his attendance. Doing so will increase the likelihood of having fewer

Your newsletter is emailed monthly in any or all formats at no additional charge, and it arrives a week early. It 's never late!

Thousands of Supervisors from These Organizations Read Frontline Supervisor Each Month:

Remove, edit,

add your own content, or amend ours. It's your newsletter.

U.S Army • Internal EAPs • External EAP Providers • Hospitals • U.S. Social Security Administration and other federal government departments • State governments • Family and Child Service Agencies • Colleges and Universities • Credit Unions • Municipalities – Industrial/
Manufacturing – Benefits Programs – Caribbean Corporations and EAPs
Family & Child Service Agencies • Nursing Facilities

Higher EAP Utilization and More Supervisor Referrals—Guaranteed.

- ✓ Help the most "at-risk" employees
- Educate supervisors all year, every month
- ✓ Quickly educate and train new staff in EAP theory and application
- ✓ Market your EAP and power-up proposals
- ✓ Build more effective relationships with management
- ✓ Increase EAP value
- ✓ Reach every supervisor with the EAP message
- ✓ Subscriber hotline takes your article ideas!

"We send Frontline electronically and every month I get at least 2 or 3 individuals who e-mail me back and thank us for sending Frontline. It is a great way to keep EAP fresh in people's minds, and they really enjoy the quickread articles. Thanks for the great product!" Leah Szemborski, Ministry Healthcare EAP

"Everyone will love FrontLine Supervisor or we will refund 100% of the price you paid for your subscription." Daniel A. Feerst LISW-CP Founding Publisher

FAST FAX: 843-884-0442

iteli substilbei sidei ii	V 111
maintain solid relationships with to	s all year, keep our EAP utilization rate high, and op management! Start my free, three-month OR EAP NEWSLETTER (12 issues for $675!)
YES! I am paying $675.00 now! Sen BONUS! Two years! (50% off second
Contact me about a free profession and contact information on it.	ally created masthead with my own title, logo,
Name:	Title:
Organization:
Address:
City: State:	ZIP:
Phone: () E-Ma	ail:
CHOOSE ANY/ALL: PAYMENT TYPE: MS Publisher Credit Card	Card No:
☐ Text File (MS Word) ☐ Check Enclosed ☐ PDF ☐ Bill Me	Expires: 3-Digit CVC:
MS Word with Graphics P.O. #	Total Payment: $
☐ All the above	Want two years? Take 50% off the second year.

New Subscriber Order From

What Your Colleagues are Saying about Frontline Supervisor!

"Since July, 1998, I have distributed (via e-mail) The FrontLine Supervisor to my management clients. I have received much positive feedback and I remain impressed with the information's accuracy and applicability regardless of the type of business or clientele served. I commend this newsletter for your consideration."

consideration." David G. Wertz, Psy.D Licensed Psychologist EAP Coordinator
Thanks for making the FS switch to an e-version for us. It has really improved our ability, and our customers' ability to distribute the FS. We get regular feedback from our customers about how much th like the FS."	ey
Catherine Bruns, Director Hawaii Employee Assistance Services
"Thanks [for your newsletter], I can't tell you how much our client companies appreciate what you are writing. Always a big hit with managers we work with and very helpful for them! Keep up the good wor David Worster, Director NH EAP Collaborative Concord, NH
"Every month I tell my clients'this is particularly good issue' and every month it truly is!" This is a gresource. Thank you so much. Elizabeth Robinson, LMFT, CEAP, Manager, Employee Assistance Program Division of Occupational and Environmental Medicine Univiersity of Connecticut Health Center Farmington, CT	reat
"I distribute THE FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR to all my contracts every month. It has helped me stay in touch with the supervisors and has increased referrals to our program." Barry Wyrich Employee Alternatives,The Stevens Center Carlisle, PA	ı
"The FrontLine Supervisor is like putting out my own newsletter without any of the headaches." Ted Walker Walker Northwest EAP Portland, OR
"The U.S. Coast Guard is an 'operational service'. My supervisors can read THE FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR in 10 minutes. They learn how to keep their people working at full throttle!" Jody Burcham EAP Coordinator, U.S. Coast Guard Kodiak, AK

"THE FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR is an excellent resource for the EAP's that BHA provides." Ginny Kich, Manager of Behavioral Health Behavioral Health Advantages, Inc. Peoria, IL
THE FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR has been an added asset to our company - I'm told most supervisors look forward to receiving it every month." Bill Walker, President Recovery EAP & Consulting
"Our clients find THE FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR to be an excellent source of timely, concise, and valuable information - keep it coming!" Joseph Lemmon, LCSW-C, CEAP, President The JSL Consulting Group
"We distribute THE FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR monthly under our own letterhead and have had numerous calls of appreciation for this added service." Mark Derbyshire, Director Carilion EAP Roanoke, VA
"This is the most employee assistance appropriate newsletter I have ever seen. Thank you for a job well done." Barbara Sheffield EAP Program Director Santa Barbara, CA
"Keep up the good work! THE FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR answers the questions our customers never knew they had!" Adriane Scherrer, Ex. Director Partnership EAP, Inc. Middletown, OH
"Well preparedand so appropriately presented for expanding the supervisor's knowledge of the broader application of EAP principles." Floyd L. Hansen, Ex. Director EMPAC, Inc. Witchita, KS
"My supervisors look forward to receiving their copy of THE FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR and they make copies for their second line supervisors. The articles are timely, concise, and appropriate!" Joy Janssen, Program Director SAVE EAP Santa Barbara, CA
WITHIN ED ON THE DESCRIPTION OF THE SECOND O

"THE FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR is our most effective tool for helping managers and supervisors in our client companies. They tell me they keep each issue and refer back to them."

Ted Larrison, LCSW, CEAP, EAP Manager
Southern Hills Counseling Center

Jasper, IN

"(DFA's Alcohol & Other Drugs At Work) training program along with THE FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR makes our EAP program unique and provides consistent ongoing information to client companies and our EAP counselors." Gil Garcia, Executive Director Concerned Associates Menominee, MI
"A supervisor who is not well informed on the rules of work is a ticking time bomb in the workplace. THE FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR is an excellent resource for keeping supervisors informed on the limitations placed on their workplace behavior and utterances." Dick Bickerton, Founder, EAP Resource Center (deceased) International Employee Assistance Professionals Association Arlington, VA
"I think THE FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR is an excellent idea." K.M., Manager (Midwest Desk Manufacturing Company)
"THE FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR puts managers in touch with what's going on with difficult employees." Cornell Fuller, EAP Coordinator Proctor & Gamble Co.
"Neat Q & A format - very relevant for workplace leadership!" Andy Visser, CEO Connections, Inc. Rock Valley, IA
"THE FRONTLINE SUPERVISOR has been an effective tool for us in developing materials for supervisors." Beth Gilley, Excutive Vice President Employee Assistance Service, Inc. McLean, VA
"a terrific way to connect with supervisors and reinforce EAP concepts and to share relevant worplace information!" Bill Weant, Coordinator EAPs, Tri-County Mental Health Center Salisbury, NC
"We currently use 'The FrontLine Supervisor' and it is very popular with our corporate clients. Thanks for a great publication!" Barbara Hatfield Partnership, EAP, Inc. Middletown, OH
"Thank you again for providing this wonderful service. I have been extremely pleased and impressed with the support and information received." Dr. Nancy Gup Gup & Associates, Inc. Atlanta, GA

"Since July, 1998, I have distributed (via e-mail) The FrontLine Supervisor to my management clients. I have received much positive feedback and I remain impressed with the information's accuracy and applicability regardless of the type of business or clientele served. I commend this newsletter for your consideration." David G. Wertz, Psy.D Licensed Psychologist EAP Coordinator
Thanks for making the FS switch to an e-version for us. It has really improved our ability, and our customers' ability to distribute the FS. We get regular feedback from our customers about how much they like the FS." Catherine Bruns, Director Hawaii Employee Assistance Services
Would also like to share with you that we have used Frontline Leader Newsletter for some time now and I have received very positive feedback from our Leaders who look forward to the monthly newsletters and found them to be very useful in supporting them in their role here at Goodrich. Patty Hill, EAP Manager Goodrich Corporation
"We send Frontline out electronically and every month I get at least 2 or 3 individuals who e-mail me back and thank us for sending Frontline. It is a great way to keep EAP fresh in people's minds, and they really enjoy the quick-read articles. Thanks for the great product!" Leah Szemborski EAP Counselor Ministry Healthcare
"Fontline Supervisor is an excellent tool in raising awareness of the value of the EAP to HR and management." Rob Baldino, LCSW, MBA, CEAP, SAP, SAE COO, Care Plus Solutions, Inc

"I send out FrontLine Supervisor monthly to or managers, directors, and coordinators. I always get comments on how timely and helpful the information is. Thank you Dan for providing such a vital tool!"

Mike Hargrave EAP Program Coordinator

Christus St. Michael Health Systems

Texarcana, TX 75503

"We include "FrontLine Supervisor" on our EAP website in our "For Managers" section. Managers find the Q & A format helpful and encouraging in these fiscally challenging times.

Steve Cole, Ph.D, EAP

Dartmouth Hitchcock Medical Center, Dartmouth College

Lebanon, NH

Employees-Your Most Valuable Resource

■ Is it okay to accompany my employee to an employee assistance program (EAP) meeting if the employee is nervous about attending, just to offer support and facilitate their engagement? I have an employee who is hesitant and made this request.

Phone the EAP to discuss your situation. Although it is atypical to accompany the employee to the EAP to show support, it is not prohibited. Anticipate only participating in a welcome and orientation meeting but not in the assessment that would include the sharing of personal information. Phoning ahead allows an EAP professional to discuss with you the nature of your employee's request and consider how best to approach their concerns. Realize that your attendance at the first session does not mean personal information will be shared with you later and that a release would not be signed unless this is part of a formal referral based on a job performance-related matter. You should avoid probing or discussing personal issues with your employee after the EAP meeting. The primary reason for doing so is the dynamic of how such conversations can easily lead to an employee's decision to disengage from a treatment or counseling referral.

■ We had training in workplace substance abuse but not how to approach an employee nor what to say and how to say it. Can you offer tips for engaging with an employee whom we suspect is under the influence on the job?

Take a couple of minutes to observe your employee and document details such as slurred speech, unsteady gait, or difficulty concentrating. If your company requires a second supervisor's observation, or involvement of a union or business representative, make these arrangements. Company policies vary widely regarding these issues. Find a private location to have a confidential conversation with the employee. Express your concerns about the behavior but be direct and nonapologetic. Do not make assumptions or accusations. State what you have observed. For example, ask the employee, "Bill, you look a little 'off.' Are you okay?" And then allow the employee to respond. Or ask, "Have you been drinking today?" Be calm. Show empathy. Do not be judgmental. If the employee admits to drinking or shows signs of impairment, address the issue immediately and follow your company's referral policy, including whom to notify. The above is for general information only. Consult with HR and your EAP representative for greater clarification.

■ The EAP doesn't provide legal advice, but how can consulting with an EAP professional reduce the risk of an employer being sued?

EAPs encourage supervisor consultations, and one benefit of these consultations is to reduce the risk of legal complaints prompted by missteps in the supervision process. For example, the EAP might help the supervisor present clearer expectations to an employee regarding their performance. This in turn would help prevent an unnecessary adverse job action for failure by the employee to perform to standards and a subsequent legal claim for being treated unfairly. EAP professionals know the importance of diversity, equity, and inclusion issues in the workplace. During a consultation, the EAP professional may discuss the supervisor's awareness of how a decision or course of action might be received, particularly if it could lead to a complaint of discrimination. These are only two examples of how EAPs reduce legal exposure, which undoubtedly is one of EAPs' most cost-beneficial impacts.

How do I confront an employee who suddenly is performing unsatisfactorily without sounding ungrateful for their past performance?

An employee who has been an excellent performer but is now showing a pattern of reduced effort and quality or quantity of work must be confronted, but the right approach is crucial. Schedule a meeting with the employee to discuss their recent performance. Acknowledge their past performance and highlight the value they bring to the company. Both aspects are powerful in motivating change. Let your employee know you appreciate their work and its positive impact. Be specific about the problem you are discussing, with examples of where they have fallen short. Include how the current performance issues are affecting the team, if applicable. Ask for the employee's perspective and what they think about the issues you have just shared. You may hear about personal issues at this point that are suitable for referral to the EAP. Overall, take the "we" approach to help get the problem resolved. For example, say, "Bill, let's work to get you back on track." Set expectations, a timeline for change, and a schedule for reviewing the employee's progress. Let the employee know you are a strong believer in their ability to deliver.

■ I have been hearing the word "belonging" quite often as it pertains to employee well-being. Is this new concept, and what should it mean to me as supervisor?

The word "belonging" has come to mean helping ensure that all employees feel welcomed, included, and connected in the workplace. It also means that employees feel valued and respected for who they are, along with having their contributions recognized and appreciated. Belonging is important because it can lead to increased job satisfaction, engagement, and motivation. This can dramatically improve performance and productivity. Supervisors can value belonging by embracing employee differences, encouraging open and honest communication between workers, and finding opportunities for employees to grow and develop. Don't forget to celebrate achievements and contributions. Engage your employees one-on-one with effective conversations to identify feelings of lack of belonging. Do this by regularly asking them how they are doing and how the job is working out for them.

NOTES

Employees-Your Most Valuable Resource Frontline Supervisor

Employee Assistance (EAP) Fort Hood

■ Is it okay to accompany my employee to an employee assistance program (EAP) meeting if the employee is nervous about attending, just to offer support and facilitate their engagement? I have an employee who is hesitant and made this request.

Phone the EAP to discuss your situation. Although it is atypical to accompany the employee to the EAP to show support, it is not prohibited. Anticipate only participating in a welcome and orientation meeting but not in the assessment that would include the sharing of personal information. Phoning ahead allows an EAP professional to discuss with you the nature of your employee's request and consider how best to approach their concerns. Realize that your attendance at the first session does not mean personal information will be shared with you later and that a release would not be signed unless this is part of a formal referral based on a job performance—related matter. You should avoid probing or discussing personal issues with your employee after the EAP meeting. The primary reason for doing so is the dynamic of how such conversations can easily lead to an employee's decision to disengage from a treatment or counseling referral.

■ We had training in workplace substance abuse but not how to approach an employee nor what to say and how to say it. Can you offer tips for engaging with an employee whom we suspect is under the influence on the job? Take a couple of minutes to observe your employee and document details such as slurred speech, unsteady gait, or difficulty concentrating. If your company requires a second supervisor's observation, or involvement of a union or business representative, make these arrangements. Company policies vary widely regarding these issues. Find a private location to have a confidential conversation with the employee. Express your concerns about the behavior but be direct and nonapologetic. Do not make assumptions or accusations. State what you have observed. For example, ask the employee, "Bill, you look a little 'off.' Are you okay?" And then allow the employee to respond. Or ask, "Have you been drinking today?" Be calm. Show empathy. Do not be judgmental. If the employee admits to drinking or shows signs of impairment, address the issue immediately and follow your company's referral policy, including whom to notify. The above is for general information only. Consult with HR and your EAP representative for greater clarification.

■ The EAP doesn't provide legal advice, but how can consulting with an EAP professional reduce the risk of an employer being sued?

EAPs encourage supervisor consultations, and one benefit of these consultations is to reduce the risk of legal complaints prompted by missteps in the supervision process. For example, the EAP might help the supervisor present clearer expectations to an employee regarding their performance. This in turn would help prevent an unnecessary adverse job action for failure by the employee to perform to standards and a subsequent legal claim for being treated unfairly. EAP professionals know the importance of diversity, equity, and inclusion issues in the workplace. During a consultation, the EAP professional may discuss the supervisor's awareness of how a decision or course of action might be received, particularly if it could lead to a complaint of discrimination. These are only two examples of how EAPs reduce legal exposure, which undoubtedly is one of EAPs' most cost-beneficial impacts.

How do I confront an employee who suddenly is performing unsatisfactorily without sounding ungrateful for their past performance?

An employee who has been an excellent performer but is now showing a pattern of reduced effort and quality or quantity of work must be confronted, but the right approach is crucial. Schedule a meeting with the employee to discuss their recent performance. Acknowledge their past performance and highlight the value they bring to the company. Both aspects are powerful in motivating change. Let your employee know you appreciate their work and its positive impact. Be specific about the problem you are discussing, with examples of where they have fallen short. Include how the current performance issues are affecting the team, if applicable. Ask for the employee's perspective and what they think about the issues you have just shared. You may hear about personal issues at this point that are suitable for referral to the EAP. Overall, take the "we" approach to help get the problem resolved. For example, say, "Bill, let's work to get you back on track." Set expectations, a timeline for change, and a schedule for reviewing the employee's progress. Let the employee know you are a strong believer in their ability to deliver.

■ I have been hearing the word "belonging" quite often as it pertains to employee well-being. Is this new concept, and what should it mean to me as supervisor?

The word "belonging" has come to mean helping ensure that all employees feel welcomed, included, and connected in the workplace. It also means that employees feel valued and respected for who they are, along with having their contributions recognized and appreciated. Belonging is important because it can lead to increased job satisfaction, engagement, and motivation. This can dramatically improve performance and productivity. Supervisors can value belonging by embracing employee differences, encouraging open and honest communication between workers, and finding opportunities for employees to grow and develop. Don't forget to celebrate achievements and contributions. Engage your employees one-on-one with effective conversations to identify feelings of lack of belonging. Do this by regularly asking them how they are doing and how the job is working out for them.

NOTES